1 st Clydebank Guides & Rangers	Girl Guiding Scotland is Scotland's leading charity for girls and young women, helping young members develop skills for life in a welcoming girl-only space where girls and young women can try new things, help other people and discover their passions and talents. All while having fun with a readymade group of friends.	£1,800	The group has a young helper who left school with few qualifications, however through volunteering at the group has found a vocation working with young people and special needs youngsters. She currently works 15 hours a week in a low income position as well as volunteering. The group would like to enrol the young leader on an SVQ level 2 course to give her formal qualifications in this area. This would benefit the Guiding company she volunteers with as this unit has a number of young people with special needs. Individually, it would also benefit her greatly, giving her career options in the future. Course would be undertaken via GCVS who will provide an assessor to work on a one to one basis. Cost includes assessor time, course materials, exams and 3 rd party verification of the assessment.	Total cost is £1,800 Group contribution: £0 Recommendation: £1,800
