ELECTORAL REFORM FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENT

There was submitted letter from the Chief Executive of West Lothian Council inviting the Council to support the following motion passed by that authority:

“My authority welcomes the debate on electoral reform for local government.

While supporting many of the recommendations of the McIntosh Commission Report, the Council is concerned that the only real option of reform being advocated by McIntosh and the Kerley report is that of proportional representation - a system of election that will have a dramatic effect on local government.

West Lothian Council believes that PR will increase the number of hung councils, thereby causing political instability within local government and reducing the openness and accountability of Scottish local government by threatening the direct link between voters and their representatives.

As locally elected representatives of our communities, it is essential that we do all we can to retain direct accountability to communities and wards. This is an inherent strength of local politics and is valued by all constituents no matter what their political persuasion.

This Council therefore calls upon the Scottish Executive to abandon any notion of PR in local government and concentrate instead on working with councils and councillors to promote best practice, democratic participation and the retention of the direct ward/elected member link”.

Councillor White, seconded by Councillor McCallum, moved that the Council agree to support the terms of the letter received from West Lothian Council and that the Council should not endorse any move towards the politicisation of casework.

As an amendment, Councillor Ronald McColl, seconded by Councillor McLaughlin, moved that the Council should not support the terms of the letter.
